Library to Host Volunteer Fair

TOMS RIVER –Ocean County Library’s Toms River branch will host a Volunteer Fair 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 12 in Mancini Hall.

Attendees will meet with a variety of county and local agencies and other organizations that are looking for your help. Men, women and young adults are needed for indoor and outdoor tasks. A variety of talents and skills are needed and many organizations will provide training.

A short list of work opportunities include:

Outdoors: trail repair; planting beach grass; staffing information booths at fairs; and construction and property maintenance, including hammering and drilling.

Indoors: clerical and office work; computer and technology skills; crafts; fundraising; advocacy and educational events.

The Volunteer Fair will help you find an organization that is a perfect match for you and your talents! It will also enable you to promote yourself to prospective employers by documenting your special skills and showing your commitment to community service.

The program is free and open to the public. For information, telephone 732-349-6200 ext. 5111 or visit the library webpage www.theoceancountylibrary.org .
